ABSTRACT

A rack equipment environmental condition adjustment system and method is presented. In one embodiment of the present invention, a rack equipment environmental condition adjustment system includes rack equipment for processing information. An environmental condition adjustment component adjusts the rack equipment based upon environmental conditions. A communication bus for communicatively coupling the rack equipment and the environmental condition adjustment component, wherein the communication bus communicates information between the environmental adjustment component and the rack equipment.